Conservation Case study - Lower House

This project required us to refurbish an existing farm house to a luxury five bed-roomed self catering accommodation with three bathrooms, a fully fitted kitchen with granite worktops and utility.

Due to the age of the property major structural repairs were carried out to the first floor as well repairs to structural partition walls. There was a complete interior fit to include a new ground floor bathroom, new first floor en-suite, a complete rewire, installation of oil fired heating sytem and decorations throughout using Farrow and Ball paints.

To the outside of the property, works were required to the thatch roof, re-pointing and stone repairs, extensive lime plaster repairs and then a full lime wash to the exterior of the building.
